

DANGEROUS LIAISONS

DANGER

Monday 11 November 2013

Presented by: Gregory Nicolau

Intimate relationship building with children and young people who are non-trusting of adults is a tricky path to walk. An adult's ability to stay calm in the chaos is critical, along with their ability to give meaning to the child's behaviour even when it may be of a sexual, manipulative or violent nature.

Objectives:

- To explore how healthy intimate relationships are formed
- To understand the impact of trauma on healthy attachments
- To recognise the markers of attachment forming behaviours
- To learn to create a healing 'rhythm' for children and young people in care
- To appreciate that harmed children and young people's behaviours are driven by the need to survive
- To develop strategies to respond to sexualised, manipulative and violent behaviours
- To acquire skills to be open rather than defensive in the presence of strong emotions bubbling up inside you - the worker, teacher or carer.

Suitable Audience:

- Carers & workers from foster, permanent, residential, adoptive & kinship care
- Family service workers • Child protection workers • Teachers / teacher's aide
- Student welfare / wellbeing professionals
